Buck Refuses to Recommend For 2nd Judgeship

Policy of Non-interference in Selection of New Judge Told to Governor

Judge Buck will not take part in the controversy in regard to the naming by the governor of a second superior judge for San Mateo county. In a telephone conversation with Governor Rolph this week Judge Buck told the governor that he would have nothing to do with recommending any candidate for the office.

A second superior judgeship for this county was created by the recent legislature, and the appointment of a judge to fill the office until the next regular election is now up to Governor Rolph. A number of aspirants are seeking the position.

Governor Rolph called Judge Buck from Sacramento and asked him whom he would recommend for the position. Judge Buck declined to make any recommendations, stating that in his position he did not consider it right to favor any candidate for the office.

Other county leaders will probably be called upon by the governor for recommendations. The members of the board of supervisors and all members of the San Mateo County Bar Association have forwarded their endorsement of District Attorney Franklin Swart for the office. It is also understood that a number of petitions have been circulated throughout the county by friends of the popular district attorney to further his candidacy.

CHANGES SOUGHT IN FEDERAL KEEPING OF CHILD PRISONERS

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UP) — The Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission today pointed an accusing finger at Uncle Sam in its report on child offenders, charging that the government has vented an ignorant, dark-age cruelty on children who break federal laws.

The attorney-general nodded acquiescence and hastened to lighten brutal treatment of child transgressors. The commission told President Hoover, who is noted for his love for children, that Congress should act to withdraw the government from the field of child punishment.

The federal government treats children like adults when federal laws are broken, in marked contrast with the attitude of 47 states, the commission found. In the states, an erring child is considered a ward of the state, and cannot be prosecuted. He can only be treated in a manner calculated to reform.

But the federal government prosecutes the child as a criminal, sends him often thousands of miles to a prison, sometimes wearing an iron "oregon boot," the commission told the President.

Uncle Sam sends these child "criminals" most of whom violated the law at the behest of adults, and for small or childish gains, to federal prisons among the hardest of criminals, and to local jails and reformatories. Some of these jails, particularly in southern and southwestern judicial districts "present a situation of filth and misery impossible to convey," the report said.

The report contains 175 pages of statistics, case-histories, and tables teeming with details of unattended social diseases and mental disorders, minute and terrible stories of man's inhumanity to man, under the mild and casual title, "The Child Offender in the Federal System of Justice."

Attorney-General William D. Mitchell, who co-operated in the study, expressed himself to the commission as "convinced that steps should be taken to reduce the number of juveniles dealt with by the federal government and to improve the methods of dealing with those retained in federal custody." He has sent letters to U. S. marshals urging them to use detention homes instead of jails for children.

Artist Center Is Plan for Phelan Home

Gift of $1,000,000 Montalvo Estate Accepted by Art Association

SARATOGA, Cal., July 8 (UP)—Possibility of the creation of an art center comparable to Huntington Galleries in Pasadena was forecast here with the acceptance of Villa Montalvo, $1,000,000 estate of the late Senator James D. Phelan by the San Francisco Art Association.

Senator Phelan willed the villa surrounded by a 100-acre ranch, to the association for such use as they deemed best "to encourage literature, drama and the arts."

He provided for the maintenance of the estate from a $250,000 trust fund.

President William L. Gerstle of the association said that he believed the donor's intention was to create a center where young artists in every line could be given beautiful surroundings, assistance and working facilities.

In any event, the association will work to realize the objective intended by Senator Phelan, it was explained, and Villa Montalvo eventually will become a glorified atelier, in which painters, sculptors, musicians, artists of every description may work toward the development of their respective talents.

Libel Suit Filed Here Over Letter

Army Farrier Sues Smith for Charges that U. S. Goods Were Being Used

A suit in which Stanley Beliveau, horseshoer stationed at the Reserve Officers' Training camp at Stanford University, seeks to recover $25,000 from D. C. Brown, San Mateo blacksmith. Beliveau's basis for action is an alleged libelous letter which he claims Brown wrote to his superior officer, and in which Brown is alleged to have charged that by using government supplies Beliveau was cutting prices of peninsula blacksmiths in shoeing horses.

The letter alleged to have been written by Brown, and which is charged by Beliveau to be libelous, reads.

"We wish to enter a protest against the enlisted man named Bellevue who is located at Remount station at Stanford University. This man goes among the customers of established business men of good standing in the horseshoeing trade and solicits work by the cutting of prices.

"A checkup of the houses selling blacksmith supplies has failed to give any line on where this man gets his shoe and other supplies, so this can leave only one conclusion: cheap prices by using government supplies.

"We feel that it is unjust for our army to allow an enlisted man to be put in a position to compete with private citizens; therefore we ask that this practice be stopped."

The plaintiff is being represented in his action by Attorney Norman S. Menifee.

WORK TO START SOON ON NEW PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

Two-story Concrete Structure to House Mt. Carmel School; Building To Be Built on Katherine and Grand Streets; Local Labor To Be Used

Plans for a new $100,000 school building in Redwood City were announced today by Father John Cavanagh, pastor of Mt. Carmel Catholic church. Construction will begin within the next three or four weeks.

The project, Father Cavanagh said, had been under consideration for several months. At a recent meeting of the men of the parish it was unanimously agreed to go ahead with the work immediately in order to reap the benefit of present low construction costs and at the same time afford some measure of relief in Redwood City's unemployment situation.

The new school plant, which will be a modern two-story concrete structure in picturesque Spanish design, will occupy a site on the northeast corner of Katherine and Grand streets, centrally located in the heart of Redwood City's fast-growing residential district.

It is planned eventually, Father Cavanagh said, to erect a new church, convent and parish house on the property adjoining the school. The location of this block is held to be ideal for a complete church and school plant.

The new school as planned will accomodate 400 pupils and is expected to be adequate for the requirements of the Redwood City parish for the next eight or ten years. The old frame school on the highway which the new structure will replace now has a total of 180 students.

"Redwood City has had a phenomenal growth in the past ten years," Father Cavanagh said, "but I believe it will grow even faster in the next ten years. I don't know of a city in the state with a brighter future than Redwood City. The past decade, with no unusual development, saw its population doubled. Now, with the new railroad an accomplished fact, the development of its harbor and the opening of vast industrial sites, there is no way of predicting the greatness of Redwood City's future."

Father Cavanagh said the plans for the new school plant had already been approved by Archbishop Edward J. Hanna and that a call for bids would be sent out within a week or ten days. In the normal course of events ground for the new school should be broken by the first of next month. Starting of the project at this time met with the complete approval of the archbishop, who has speeded up work on a million dollar building program throughout the archdiocese as a stimilus against unemployment.

It was stated further by Father Cavanagh in connection with the new Redwood City school that the contract will insist that local labor and material, insofar as is possible, be used on the new building. It is believed that several local contractors will bid on the project.

Combining as it will the latest approved features of modern school construction the new plant promises to stand out as a model among buildings of its class. In a broad sense, the new parochial school will reflect the accumulated experience of well known educators up and down the peninsula and across the bay. For many months, Father Cavanagh accompanied by building experts from the archbishop's office, has been visiting the newer public and parochial schools in the bay region, studying the special features and advantages of each.

Commenting on this, Father Cavanagh said: "I feel very much indebted to the principals and teachers of the various public and parochial schools visited, for their kind co-operation and the suggestions they were able to give me in the planning of our new school. I am also indebted to Sister Mary Aquinas, of the local convent of Sisters of Notre Dame, and other members of the community of nuns of the parish school, for their experienced advice in drawing up the plans."

Henry A. Minton, San Francisco architect, drew the plans and will supervise construction. Minton has designed a number of the newer buildings in the San Francisco district.

In addition to ten light, airy classrooms accomodating 40 pupils each, the new Redwood City school will include a student cafeteria, a clubhouse and a large auditorium in which the entire student body can assemble and which may be used as a school theatre and for gatherings of parishioners. The new plant, in short, will serve as a sort of community center.

In discussing the new project, Father Cavanagh pointed out that Redwood City has long felt the need of a new modern parochial school building. "But our parish has been small," he continued, "and we never before felt that we were in a position to underwrite the sort of structure that we wanted — one that would reflect credit on our community and compare favorably with the other fine schools and institutions in Redwood City.

"I am certain this modern school plant of ours will attract many new families to Redwood City. I know a number of people who have already assured me they will come here to make their homes as soon as our new school is open. Therefore I hope I may be excused for taking a high measure of community pride in this venture. It is more than a mere denominational undertaking. It is a step forward in the life and progress of Redwood City, and should prove a valuable asset to the community as a whole."

Coming to Redwood City three years ago from Palo Alto and Mayfield, Father Cavanagh by his lively spirit for public service has not only endeared himself to his local parishioners but he has won the respect and admiration of all classes in the community. Except for his service in the army as chaplain during the world war, Father Cavanagh has devoted practicaliy all of his years as a priest to parishes on the Peninsula and in San Francisco. Prior to his assuming pastorates on the Peninsula, he served as assistant pastor at three churches in the city—St. Charles, St. Brigids and the Church of The Sacred Heart. Father Cavanagh is ably assisted in the Redwood City parish by Father William Flanagan.

Youth

Youth is not a time of life—it is a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips and supple knees; it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions; it is a freshness of the deep springs of life.

Youth means a temperamental predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite of adventure over love of ease. This often exists in a man of fifty, more than in a boy of twenty.

Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideas. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair—these are the long, long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust.

Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the sweet amazement at the stars and the starlike things and thoughts, the undaunted challenge of events, the unfailing childlike appetite for what next, and the joy and the game of life.

You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair.

In the central pace of your heart there is a wireless station; so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, courage, grandeur and power from the earth, from men and from the Infinite, so long are you young.

When the wires are all down and all the central place of your heart is covered with the snows of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then are you grown old indeed and may God have mercy on your soul.—Bindery Talk.

Boy, Page Los Angeles

Rome, the inland capitol of Italy, wants to be a sea port, and plans to have a deep canal dredged and a large artificial lake constructed. This may be alright in Italy, but in America a more efficient method would have to be devised. Rome might annex a strip of land a mile wide leading from Rome to Venice, for instance, and rename the latter city, Port Rome. By properly extending its city limits 'most any city can become a thriving sea port. We may yet live to see the day when California cities by the same method may sell subdivisions through the fact that they have frontages both on the Pacific and the Atlantic. And the plan is far more simple than the Roman one of dredging a canal.

A Warning

For some time past Chicago has stood before the public as unable to pay many of its current bills due to lack of tax funds. The mayor has stated that he does not know how the city will find its way out of its difficulties.

Without going into the reasons for Chicago's financial troubles, the situation is an object lesson for other municipalties. It proves that too much spending can embarrass an individual, a city, county, state or nation.

Chicago has the power of taxation to eventually pull itself out of the hole but even the power to tax can be carried to a point where the people refuse to pay. The disproportionate increase in taxation throughout the nation compared to growth in population and wealth, is a warning to ease up on raids on the public treasury.

A Mother's Courage

There is something inspiring in a story from Butte county about a turkey hen who rather than abandon her nest during a grass fire remained on her eggs and was found later burned to a crisp. Later the story goes, the eggs were found and placed under another hen, and all hatched. A turkey may be just a turkey, but a courage which will suffer pain and death in the flames rather than abandon her offspring has a spark of the devine. "Greater love hath no man than this."

Crime Causes Beyond Mere Restrictive Laws

The causes of crime are almost infinite in number.

The pressure of social forces, racial influences, poverty, false standards of education, even climatic conditions—all these are responsible to some degree for law breaking, serious or otherwise. And so are the better known causes such as drug addiction, alcoholism, illiteracy, the gang spirit and blood taints like insanity.

The very complexity and number of crime causes is an unanswerable argument against the effort to subdue the criminal by passing more laws. The penologist, the criminologist, the psychiatrist—in their hands lies the true future of crime prevention. Mere legislation prohibiting the use of various instruments or chemicals which might be used to commit a crime, cannot overcome the conditions, physical, emotional and mental, that are responsible for making thieves and murderers.

Save the Children

"The children of California are the most precious of our possessions and constitute our greatest economic value," states Governor James Rolph, Jr., in a bulletin received by National Automobile Club. During the summer a special state-wide drive is being conducted to reduce the appalling loss of childrens' lives.

"We may hasten this eventuality or retard it," continues Governor Rolph, "but, underlying every act of ours, we realize that in California's children lies the coming hope and responsibility of our State's future. Every thought must be turned to their welfare. The protection of their lives is paramount.

"We, in common with all communities of the Nation, are confronted with one of the most vital problems in our history. The automobile, with all its untold value to us, has presented a situation which we have as yet been unable to meet. Our citizens, and above all, our children, are being struck down by the hundreds regularly every month, injured mangled and killed, as the result of automobile accidents.

The figures of statisticians very definitely predict that more than twenty-five children will be killed during the month of July—this month of joyous vacation days, of happiness and health, which must be the lot of our children if we are to progress.

"We cannot, then, contentedly go on unless each and every one of us, as citizens, are determined that these children shall not be killed because of carelessness and thoughtlessness. We must take great care, as parents, to have them help themselves to as great an extent as possible, but, most important and where our responsibility lies is that we, as drivers, shall be ever-conscious of our guardianship of their lives."

The Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of editorial comment from California newspapers.)
By MELVIN LORD

The tariff works both ways.

Such is the conclusion of most California editors since the adoption recently of new high tariff schedule in Canada again has centered attention on the highly controversial subject of protection.

The fact that the tariff does work in more than one direction prompts the publication of a wide assortmen of interpreations concerning the outcome of the international "border battles."

In calling attention to the new Canadian tariff on oranges, of particular interest in California, The Orange Daily News states that "in view of the fact that Canada has no oranges to protect, the action can only be regarded as retaliatory legislation."

"Nevertheless," the News continues, "the American tariff must continue if the California orange grower is to maintain his market and continue in business." The San Francisco Chronicle agrees with this opinion, contending that "California orange and lemon growers would find their market swamped by the products of Spain, Sicily, Algeria and Palestine if it wasn't for our tariff."

However,The Humboldt Standard does not agree with the "retaliation theory." In the opinion of the Standard, "all the dominion has done is to prescribe for itself the same medicine prescribed by the United States, based on the theory that the country must buy more domestic goods if foreign goods are barred or made prohibitive in price."

"There is one point that has been vividly brought home to the United States by the recent retaliatory measures on the part of England, France, Canada and other major countries," The Santa Rosa Press Democrat believes.

"The United States cannot set up its own standards of commerce regardless of the interests of other countries. Drastic one-sided tariff schedules will not be tolerated by any intelligent nation. Now our short-sighted extreme tariff advocates are beginning to reap the harvest of their own folly."

The Bakersfield Californian points out that "the situation is one that might have been expected" and calls upon President Hoover for immediate action inasmuch as our own tariff law includes a provision making it possible for the "chief executive to change the schedules where good and sufficient reasons are found."

"Why is it not possible for the president to avail himself of the power which was placed in his hands, at his own request, in order to relieve American industry and American labor?" The Californian asks.

And the San Rafael Independent, in a facetious vein, remarks that "the only solution we can see to the problem is to get mad at Canada."

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

Chapter 27—

At the House-Party

During the journey to Cannes, Sheila devoted herself to the Baronne de Courcy, and succeeded in getting back into the lady's good graces.

At least, she talked no more of feeling that it was her duty to let Mrs. Kerr know how often her daughter was seeing the Count and Harry Edmonds, and that both men planned to follow her to Cannes.

If Sheila had not been so angry at the old lady's scolding, she would have been amused at the reason for her objections to the presence of Harry and Bellefonte, for it soon became clear that Harry had not been joking when he said the Baronne wanted to see Constance married to her stepson, Carlo.

"Am I to have three men paying court to me? Sheila asked herself. "Well, what is a man more or less to a woman in my predicament? Sooner or later I'm sure to miss a trick, and then the game will be over, but, in the meantime, I must play it as well as I can."

However, neither anxiety nor resentment could cloud Sheila's pleasure when she finally reached her destination and had her first view of Mediterrean scenery. The blue, blue sky, the riot of foliage and flowers, the soft, clear air, the spirit of gaiety and pleasure that prevaded everything filled her with delight.

Carlo was at the station with a motor-car, and the Baronne presented him to Sheila, gushing:

"Now you two dear children are going to be the greatest friends. Carlo, you mustn't be frightened by Constance's independent air and manners, and Constance, you mustn't be annoyed by Carlo's way of never appearing to hear what's said to him. The poor boy is so pursued by women that he is forced to pretend boredom; otherwise, they'd never leave him alone."

Carlo, a fashionably ugly young man, who gave the impression of walking in his sleep, aroused himself sufficiently to smile and nod assent to this remark. Sheila could hardly believe her eyes and ears.

"And this choice morsel is to complete my trio," she told herself. "This is the Baronne's idea of what I would like for a husband. What perception that woman has! I must humor her. She's as mad as a hatter. If she decides to mix in my affairs, everything will be over."

On the way to the Baronne's villa, Sheila frequently exclaimed at the beauty of the landscape. Finally the Baronne touched her arm, and said softly:

"Not so loud, my dear. Carlo is annoyed. I can tell by the way he's twisting his mustache. I should have told you that he dislikes enthusiasms. Utter calm is his ideal."

"Well," thought Sheila, how lovely this is going to be! I now have only four people whom I must always be careful to please — Harry, the Count, Carlo, and my hostess. Outside of that, I'm a free agent."

To distract Carlo from his displeasure she smiled at him and asked:

"Do you know Harry Edmonds? He's a friend of mine, and—"

She paused in alarm. Carlo's face was convulsed. He roared questions at the Baronne in French. Sheila's expression was a study in amazement. When, after ten minutes of fuming, Carlo was silent, the Baronne turned to Shiela.

"He doesn't like the young Mr. Edmonds," she said.

"I see," said Sheila. "Would you mind telling him that I don't know what I can do about it. By the way, he seems to have gone to sleep."

"Yes," murmured the Baronne. "Poor fellow! So sensitive. It's pathetic."

"Not to mention the wear and tear on the nerves of the bystanders," interposed Sheila. "But tell me, will he forgive me for upsetting him so?"

"Oh, yes," the Baronne laughed. "He's prepared to like you very much indeed. I wrote him all about you."

Tea that afternoon was a nightmare for Sheila. "We are having some of your mother's old friends," the Baronne had told her. "I never knew a woman so popular. Everywhere one goes one finds people who simply adore her."

Sheila stumbled through the ordeal with many misgivings. She answered a hundred questions without the slightest idea as to whether she was saying the right thing, and she noticed that several women looked astonished at some of her remarks.

But the surprise of the day was to come when she was dressing for dinner. The Baronne came in and asked casually: "You won't forget to send that message to Harry Edmonds, will you?"

"What message," asked Sheila.

"Telling him you'd rather he didn't come. Now, Constance don't be difficult. You heard what Carlo said. I can't possibly have Harry here ,under the circumstances. Why, anything might happen. You will wire him at once? Make any excuse that sounds plausible. I'll have my maid driven to the village immediately with the message, because we must be sure that it gets off without delay.

Sheila could only stare at her hostess in amazement.

DR. RODZINSKI WILL LEAD WOODLAND THEATRE GROUP

The fourth concert, marking the first half of the current season's series of open air concerts in the picturesque Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough, will be given next Sunday afternoon with Dr. Artur Rodzinski, conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra wielding the baton as guest conductor with the summer symphony orchestra.

Dr. Rodzinski achieved an unqualified success with the summer concert audiences at his two concerts last season and is the only one of the five guest conductors engaged for this year, who has previously appeared at these concerts.

Next Sunday's program will be made up largely of numbers with which Dr. Rodzinski scored added triumphs during his second season of leadership with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Following the concert last winter at which he directed Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symprony, one of the Los Angeles critics stated that "The unfolding of the Symphony should go down in Philharmonic history as one of the greatest achievements of its career. In this particular work the voice of real Russia calls loudly to the world for recognition, singing a song of tragedy and triumph, all of which Rodzinski fully realized and lent his genius to the various movements with a verve that was irresistable." Although this symphony has been one of the most popular and often played by the major orchestras in the last twenty-five years, and for that reason is very familiar, Rodzinski has been able to add new meanings and impart further brilliance to this termendous musical expression and interpretation of a nation's people and their emotional life.

Rodzinski demonstrated last season that he may be relied upon to arrange a program which will be varied in its scope and representative in interest. Next Sunday's program will include the works of four different composers whose musical expression differs widely and each number will be distinctive form. The complete program follows:

Overture to "The Bartered Bride," Smetana.

Symphony No. 5, Tschaikowsky.

Tone Poem "Death and Transfiguration," Strauss.

"Ride of the Valkyires" from "Die Walkure," Wagner.

Four-Mile Crew Race Too Strenuous for Safety of Oarsmen

To anyone who saw the Harvard-Yale regatta on the Thames River it was apparent that such a race is entirely too strenuous for any boy, no matter how strong no, matter how splendidly trained.

When the two shells churned across the finish after the four mile upstream drive from the spidery railroad bridge to Bartlett's Cove, the oarsmen of both schools were in a complete state of exhaustion. Two men in the Harvard shell were so completely fatigued that they had to be lifted from their boat and placed in the coaching launch. The most striking proof, however, that the four-mile pull is too great a tax on a man's stamina was offered by Sheldon Foster, Yale bow oarsman.

Foster, a great, big strapping chap with shoulders like an upright piano, and blessed with tremendous fighting spirit, lapsed into unconciousness almost a quarter of a mile from the finish line. One minute he was rowing stroke for stroke with the rest; the next found him slumped over his oar, his mouth poped open after the manner of a prize-fighter, who has been dealt a sledge-hammer blow on the chin.

He remained in this position until the finish of the race. As soon as his boat crossed the finish line he was lifted from the shell and placed in a launch. His brothers, while not unconscious, were all but done for and were barely able to acknowledge the cheers of the winning crew.

No one will deny that such a battle of strength and brawn offers a tremendous thrill and comes close to being the most hair-raising spectacle in the whole sports catalogue. But, and this question was asked by many along the riverbanks, is it necessary for college men to endure such punishment and run the risk of permanent injury to decide the little matter of rowing supremacy? Could not the race be rowed over a shorter course and still furnish just as many fireworks in the way of thrills?

After all, a two-mile race, while it lasts, offers just as much "kick" as a four-mile journey, and while tough enough in itself, cannot begin to compare with the miseries endured on the longer course.

That last mile in a four-mile race, to hear the oarsmen tell it, seems just a little less than 100 miles, and is rowed on pure "guts" alone. Such heroic measures make magnificient newspaper "leads" and offer a tremendous thrill to those on the shore but we doubt that these things call for such efforts.

College Oarsmen On His Own Once Race Is Under Way

College rowing is one of the few sports where once the race is underway every man is absolutely on his own. No matter how tough the going, no matter how tired the men may become, they are in that boat to stay until the whole thing is over. In nearly any other sport you can mention, there is always a substitute on the sidelines ready to relieve a player when he becomes the least bit weary. Not so with a boat race.

In lacross, football, water polo, and other of the more taxing sports, a man can leave the game when his strength is gone. But an oarsman might just as well be chained to his oar as were the galley slaves of old. Once the command to "row" is given it's keep rowing or collapse.

And anyone who knows college spirit knows that your college athlete will keep going until he drops, rather than fold up before his friends, relatives, and outsiders.

Youthful Southern Pitcher Going Good for Browns

This year of 1931, despite the depression, sacrifice fly ruling and the "dead" ball, has been a most profitable one for young baseball players, an unusually large number of rookies bridging the gap between the minors and the majors in one jump.

Outstanding among those who made the distance in one leap is Wallace Herbert, 19-year-old pitcher for the St. Louis Browns. This time last year he was toiling away unnoticed in a Class D League today he holds two victories over the world-champion Philadelphia Athletics and one triumph over the slugging New York Yankees.

Bill Killifer, manager of the Browns, first turned Herbert loose on the A's several weeks ago when the Mackmen were mowing down all opposition. The youngster stepped out on the hill and held the champions to eight hits, winning 8 to 2. His feat broke Rube Walberg's row of seven straight victories, and won him a place as a starting pitcher.

In his next start young Herbert beat the Yankees in convincing fashion and critics decided the young man had more up his sleeve than his elbow. When he stepped out against the Athletics a few days later and once more turned them back everybody was ready to admit that the young Louisianan had plenty on the ball.

Not Only Youngster to Win Laurels in Big Leagues

Herbert is not the only youngster to make good with a bang.

There is Bob Worthington of the Braves, Ernie Lombardi of the Robins, and Pepper Martin of the Cards, all of whom are more than holding their own. Worthington is a first-class fielder and hits with the best of 'em.

Martin, according to Sam Breardon, owner of the Cards, is destined to become one of the game's "greats." Breardon thought so much of Pepper that he let Taylor Douthit, a really great ball player, go to the Reds. This move has brought an avalanche of criticism, but the St. Louis owner only argues the louder that Martin will soon make the fans forget Douthit is in the league.

Martin is a strong hitter, a classy fielder, and one of the fastest men in the league once he gets on base.

Lombardi, while he still is an understudy to Catcher Al Lopez, has proved his right to all the nice words that hailed his arrival from the Coast in the Spring. The big Italian is a better than average receiver, possesses a deadly throwing arm, and is something of a slugger.

Luque Ready to Quit After One More Series—Sh!

Adolph Luque, who began his baseball career 20 years ago in his home town of Havana, Cuba, will retire at the end of the present season if the Brooklyn Robins win the National League pennant.

The veteran righthander, considered one of the National league hurling aces when with the Cincinnati Reds, has signified his intention of quitting the game as soon as he has another opportunity to pitch in a world series.

Luque was a big factor in Brooklyn's game fight for the pennant last year and although he failed to round into form until late this year, his cunning and knowledge of opposing batters is expected to be a great aid to the Robins in their attempt to win the title this season.

"I want another chance to pitch in a world series before I quit the game," Luque said in an interview. "I'm only 40 and I believe I've still got enough stuff to stick around for a couple of years. But if Brooklyn wins the pennant this season and I receive an opportunity to pitch in a world series game, I'm willing to call it a day and try my hard at something else before I get too old."

Worked in 1919 Series

Luqu has taken part in one world series. In 1919, his second season with Cincinnati, he appeared as a relief pitcher twice. He pitched five innings, striking out six batters and allowing only one hit.

The Cuban star has a record of 168 victories against 163 defeats when he started his 14th season as a major leaguer last spring.

His best year was in 1923 when he won 27 games for the Reds while losing eight. His worst season came in 1929 when he won only five out of 21 contests. It was at the close of that season that the Reds let him go to Brooklyn.

During his first season with Brooklyn he won 14 games and lost eight. His earned run average of 4.30 runs per contest, ranked him among the 20 most effective pitchers in the league. This year he started slowly and his record was four victories and three defeats up to July 1.

Aid to Rookies

Robinson still rates Luque as one of his greatest assets. The Cuban has done much in helping Robin-develop rookies. The Brooklyn manager believes even if Luque should become too old or ineffective to start games, he would prove a good relief pitcher.

But if the Robins win the pennant and Luque retires, no one will begrudge him the action. He has earned the right to quit the game has has served so well.

Fish and Game Report Shows Big Revenue to State From Fishermen

By J. F. McLAUGHLIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 9—Hunting and fishing may be classed as "big business" in California. License fees alone net the state nearly a million dollars a year.

This was disclosed in the biennial report of the State Fish and Game Commission to Governor James Rolph, Jr. Last year alone the total revenue from hunting licenses was $499,114, while the revenue from angling licenses totaled $469,442 the report showed.

Nimrods of San Mateo county paid $4,999 for the privilege of hunting largely ducks and deer, while fishermen in the same county paid $3,748 for licenses.

"Other principal sources of income to the state were the sale of market fishermen's licenses, amounting to approximately $30,000 a year," said the report; the fish packers' tax of 50 cents per ton, amounting to $1,402,317 for the last two years, and court fines for fish and game law violations, amounting to $171,652 for the period."

Notable accomplishments of the commission during the last two years included the following; Purchase and development of a 3,000-acre refuge for migratory waterfowl in the San Joaquin valley near Los Banos; completion of the Bluefin, new seagoing patrol boat for the bureau of commercial fisheries, completion of the Los Serranos game farm near Chino, San Bernardino county; completion of the Navarro river jetty; construction of the Yuba river hatchery, and two series of rearing ponds in the southern part of the state, and planting of striped bass in the Salton sea.

The fish and game commission is self-supporting, operates within its income, and takes no money from the general fund of the state.

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH LOOSES STAR CENTER

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh football hopes for the 1931 season suffered a hard blow in the suspension from school of Ralph Daugherty, varsity center.

Daughterty was one of the six athletes who were put under one-semester suspension for scholastic failures.

Dr. Jack Sutherland, Pitt football coach, said it was "the most severe blow Pitt could have sustained.

"Daugherty would have been the key man on our line," Sutherland said, "but we'll manage to worry along some how. After all it is more important that he and the others make up their classroom work than play football or any other game."

ATHLETIC YOUNGSTER HURLS NO-HIT GAME

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 9 (UP)—The third no-hit pitching performance on the records of the New York-Pennsylvania League, Class B organization, was turned in recently by a youth hurling his eighth professional game, George "Specs" Dietrick, Philadelphia Athletics "farmhand" on the Harrisburg roster.

Dietrick held the hard-hitting Wilkes-Barons hitless through nine innings in a game on the Wilkes-Barre field. Another Athletics rookie, Eddie Cihocki, infielder, scored the only run with a home run drive.

Dietrick's nine-inning performance has been duplicated but once during the nine years the circuit has been operating. Rudy Kneisch, Binghamton and former International League left-hander, hurled a hitless game in 1926 while a member of the Shamokin team.

In 1929 a Harrisburg pitcher named Hansen held the Binghamton team without a hit over a seven-inning stretch.

Deithick looks like a good hurling prospect for Connie Mack's forces. He is a Philadelphia high school product and spent last season pitching to batters in the pre-game practices of the Athletics. Like Lee Meadows, former Pittsburgh Pirate, he uses glasses.

Other Athletic prospects on the Harrisburg roster besides Dietrick and Cihocki include Eddie Gulian, former Gettysburg College player, an infielder; and Merrit "Sugar" Cain, a pitcher from a Georgia college.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—(UP) — There will be no more gangster movies produced by the Fox Film Corporation, according to Winfield Sheehan, vice president, who has just arrived after a few weeks in New York.

Sheehan believes that with the country emerging from the financial depression, the movie-going public wants entertainment that will inspire achievement, or something cheering.

"This means," Shehan said, "that in so far as our corporation is concerned, the so-called gangster or racketeering pictures, will not be included in our forthcoming list of films. There will be no productions dealing with the organized activities of gangsters or the underworld."

He announced that the Lone Wolf's Son, Louis Joseph Vance's latest serial, had been purchased. Also that talking picture rights have been acquired for the stage plays, The Plutocrat, by Booth Tarkington, and The Brat, by Maude Fulton.

Ernest Lawford, English actor, playing in Personal Maid, the Nancy Carroll film being produced by Paramount, always will remember the first time Mary Pickford played a leading role in New York City.

"The play was "A Good Little Devil," Lawlord said. "I remember it because of an incident which always will keep the play fresh in my mind. Mrs. Lawford was taken to a hospital just before one of the matinees, but I planned to appear as usual.

"I was about to go on the stage when I noticed a Western Union blank in a letter box at the foot of the staircase. The message, addressed to me, said, "It's a boy. Eight pounds'."

"I put the message in my pocket, walked on the stage, and instead of saying my regular line, announced to the audience:

"'It's a boy'."

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Accept a substitute.

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, July 9—(UP) — It was out of one fight and into another for Governor James Rolph this week. Three separate and distinct rumpuses, involving his appointees, set the gossips' tongues a-wagging on political row.

State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, who would like to be governor of California some day, declared at the rate the Rolph administration was spending money the treasury would be bankrupt in two years and probably $3,000,000 "in the red."

The governor's director of finance, Rolland A. Vandegrift, begged to correct the state treasurer, and said the state will have a surplus of $13,000,000—instead of a deficit.

Governor Rolph announced he would back Vandegrift to the limit, and allowed that President Hoover was losing a big opportunity in not getting Johnson's advice to solve the financial problems of the world.

Overriding the opinion of Attorney General U. S. Webb that it could not award a $200,000 textbook contract to eastern publishers, the state board of education held a meeting in Los Angeles and decided to put through the deal.

The governor held a confab with State Printer Harry Hammond over the matter, and it was decided that a suit for injunction would be filed to prevent the action. The suit was instituted in the name of J. L. R. Marsh, secretary of the Sacramento Federated Trades council.

"I have the assurance of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce that it will fight to the limit to keep the publication of textbooks in California," said the governor. "Similar action is expected of the San Francisco chamber."

The third fight, which has been waged by persons opposed to the recent ousting of K. J. Scudder as head of the Whittier state school for boys, resulted from the appointment by Dr. J. M. Toner, director of institutions, of Dr. George C. Sabichi, Bakersfield, as head of the Whittier school.

It was Sabichi whom the state board of health refused to confirm as deputy director of public health several months ago. Sabichi's appointment, it is understood, is temporary. He will take over the public health post in a few months, when Governor Rolph gains control of the state board of health.

The governor refused to commute the sentence of Charles Simpson, San Francsco "torch murderer," who killed Mrs. Albina Voorhies, aged San Francisco woman, during a holdup. The youth saturated the woman's clothes with kerosene, and while she was yet alive, set fire to her. He got $2 in loot.

Simpson will be hanged July 17, at which time William H. Burkhardt, Los Angeles wife-killer, will also be executed. Burkhardt, who is a "two-time loser," had appealed to the supreme court for executive clemency, and the appeal was denied. This gave the governor no alternative but to permit the execution.

The farmer needs the rain, you know;

The answer to the following questions might help you to determine your fitness as a prospective teacher.

First—Do you like children, not only when they are amusing for a short time but when you are responsible for their care for some hours?

Second — Have you patience enough to deal with children not quite so bright as the average?

Third—Can you stick to things even when the rough places appear?

Fourth—Do you like to study and look deeply into the reasons underlying your work?

Fifth—Are you willing to make sacrifices of some pleasures and habits that perhaps seem to you innocent enough in themselves and yet would not be becoming to a teacher?

Sixth—Can you gain the respect of people for what you are rather than by coercion?

Seventh — Have you already been a leader among your classmates in their different activities?

However, this last question should not be taken too seriously since in large high school classes many girls will not have had the opportunity to develop powers of leadership that they really may have.

For kindergarten work you should be a graduate of a first-class kindergarten training school in addition to whatever other education you may secure. If you intend to teach in grade or rural schools, you should at least be a graduate of a first-class normal school or teachers' college. Some very fine systems of schools demand an A.B. or a B.S. degree for grade teachers, in the upper grades particularly and sometimes in all grades.

There are always oportunities today for those who have the scholarship and ambition to fit themselves for positions at the top. At the present time there are opportunities for expert teachers to become directors.

Common Colds Cost Staggering Sum

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 9 — Keep out of the drafts and save [illegible] money.

One bad cold in itself may be disagreeable but not terribly expensive But the economic loss to all the people of Califonnia from this one form of illness in a year is tremendous. It costs them more than $40,000,000 a year.

San Mateo county shares in this loss to the extent of $541,835, according to latest compilations of the state board of health.

The figures making up the "cost of a bad cold" include losses in wages, doctor bills, cough medicines, gargles, syrups ,etc., and the average is approximately $7.00 a year for every man, woman and child in California.

Colds have been found directly responsible or 39 per cent of all absences from work, according to a survey over 10 years in one of the state's largest industrial firms. Among women the colds caused 31 per cent of the absences. It was show that they caused a loss equal to nearly 1½ days per year for every man on the payroll, and 2 days for every woman employed.

Women suffer more from tonsilitis, sore throat and similar ailments than the men, it was shown. It was also apparent that the disabling illnesses of women were shorter than those of men, but that their absences were more frequent.

"Offensive warfare against colds should first include a critical examination of the whole body to uncover any physical defects and errors in living habits and any foci of infection expecially in the mouth, nose and throat," the board said.

"This being done, the next step is to train the skin and circulatory apparatus by alternate hot and cold showers, and especially by sponging or spraying on the back of the neck and chest, in order to overcome a hair-trigger reaction to drafts and chilling.

"It has been definitely proved that drafts, such as those caused by open windows or an electric fan, do actually play an important part in causing colds, and reasonable common sense must be exercised in employing all the rules of hygiene with reference to skin training. Use common sense in avoiding pampering of the skin and accustoming it to fresh moving air."

According to all accounts she will have her hands full in Reno, her new assignment.

Jack Grill and his family have returned from a vacation spent at Gold Lake, Sierra county. The popular constable caught the limit in trout almost every day.

On Monday last Judge Hoss sentenced W. P. Paridy, San Francisco, to pay a fine of $50 for driving a car while under the influence of liquor.

The city council met on Tuesday evening to take up the matter of paving Arbor avenue and adjoining streets. No action was taken by the council and the meeting was adjourned until Thursday evening when some action is to be taken.

The annual national horseshow will be held at the Menlo Circus Club this year instead of at Palo Alto. It will start on August 8 and end on the 15th.

Bert Mehl, the popular and efficient city engineer, has leased a suite of rooms in the Sutton building for offices.

The picnic given under the auspices of the Native Sons and Daughters of Menlo Park last Sunday in the Mangini Grove at Portola was a wonderful success, both socially and financially. People from all parts of the peninsula attended and all had a big time. The Native Sons and Daughters feel thankful for the generous response of the people and wish to thank all those who donated prizes for the games and contests.

W. J. Tobin, Oakland contractor estimates that he will have the Hermosa tract sewers in Menlo Park installed by the end of this week. The sewer extension on Valparaiso avenue is in and the new sewers are laid on Pine street.

D. E. O'Keefe returned from a week's vacation spent in Yosemite Valley on Thursday. He was a guest at Camp Curry. He was accompanied on the trip by Miss Carmel and Edward O'Keefe, Jack Tuttle and Miss Dorothy Taylor. State Budget For Recreation Second in U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9—(UP)—California stood second in the nation in funds spent for public recreation during 1930 and greatly outdistanced her own expenditures for this purpose in 1928 and 1929, according to the year book of the National Recreation Association.

The total expenditure of $4,437,107 reported by 49 communities and two counties of the state for last year was second only to New York state's report of $6,471,984. Illinois was third with $3,972,521, and Ohio fourth. California's report for 1928 was $3,012,243, and for 1929, $3,754,826.

The development of parks and playgrounds to provide employment in a year of depression was responsible for some of the 1930 increase, the association points out, though a gain also was shown in the amount spent for recreation leadership. The number of leaders employed the year round, 296, placed California fourth in this respect. The state stood fourth in directed play areas, reporting 943. Among the facilities which supplied wholesome sport for Californians were 569 tennis courts, 97 recreation centers and 17 municipal golf courses.

Los Angeles, with a report of $1,229,167 spent for public recreation during the year, took sixth place among the large cities in total expenditure and ninth place in per capita expenditure—99c. Pasadena reported an expenditure of $380,832, about $5 per capita, but $203,782 of this went for land, buildings and permanent equipment. San Francisco spent $879,704, Oakland $286,000, Long Beach, $153,500, Santa Monica $138,242, Sacramento $92,342, San Diego $90,931 and Berkeley $81,376.

Recreation systems reported by Los Angeles and Santa Barbara counties are a local instance of the new movement for play under county auspices. No use of county funds for recreation was reported to the year book for 1920; four counties reported recreation systems for 1925, and 49 counties for 1930.

Gold Pans Now Finding Buyers

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 9—The depression has revived California's oldest and most romantic industry—placer mining.

Hills and streams that once resounded with the feverish activities of the red-shirted miners of '49, once again are the scenes of industry as men and women seek their own particular answer to the unemployment question.

The first indication of the resumption of small-scale placer mining was seen in the sudden jump in the sale of gold pans.

Hardware dealers in Sacramento and throughout northern California report that the sale of gold pans has increased steadily during the last few months. Where one pan a week may have been sold before, three or four now are being sold every day.

There's vast difference between the "days of '31" and those of '49, however. Eighty years ago men had visions of sudden wealth—fortunes for the asking.

Now, men are hopeful, of course, but less visionary. A daily wage gained only through long hours of back-breaking work is all that is expected.

California has its "ghost towns" which hark back to the original gold rush. Other ghost towns are in the making. Today's emergency miner takes his family with him. Little houses of scraps of lumber and tin—anything that affords protection—have sprung up in the impromptu "cities" along the streams. Probably next year, they too, will be deserted.

But in the meantime flakes of the yellow metal are being washed out of the gravel, and little pouches ap bottles of gold have made their appearances again in California towns.

And the sale of gold pans continues.

Teacher Surplus Problem in State

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, July 8—(UP)—While California gradually is solving its "teacher unemployment" problem, there still is a substantial surplus of educators in the state.

This condition is revealed in a report compiled by the division of teacher training and certification, state department of education, and submitted to Governor Rolph.

During the last year, only 2,690 new teachers were employed in California, while 3,433 new teachers were certified. Of the total, San Mateo county employed 31 new teachers.

In a comparison of figures of previous years, there is an indication of a gradual "leveling out" of the teacher surplus according to the department of education. In 1927-28 the excess of supply over demand was 3,335; in 1929-30, 1,243, and in 1930-31, 812.

The department, however, calls attention to the fact that the situation is not alleviated to the degree indicated inasmuch as there is an accumulation of unpaid teachers from previous years. The statistics deal only with new employment and new certification.

"A solution which would help to remedy the situation in regard to over-supply would be the determination on the part of employing officials to secure trained teachers for every type of work," Vierling Kersey, director of education, stated.

"New types of work are developed constantly, especially in adult education, which require a period of experimentation before definite policies of certification are determined. During this adjustment period certification is granted on an emergency basis until such a time as the institutions may work out programs of training and adjust themselves to the new situations.

"Specific training for various types of social work and for special educations should in the future eliminate an appreciable surplus of teachers," Kersey concluded.

County Auditor Back to Office

County Auditor Edward M. Stack is back at his post at the courthouse this week after a 40-day trip to New York and points of interest in the east. He went to New York through the Panama canal, and returned via the Canadian Pacific, stopping off at Washington, Chicago, Jasper National Park and other places along the route.

Water Company To Be Sold

Sale of the Pacific Water Company, which supplies San Mateo, Hillsborough, Burlingame and South San Francisco, and its subsidiary, the San Carlos Water Company, was made know this week when an application for a permit to buy the companies was filed with the California Railroad Commission by the California Water Service, a corporation operating throughout the state, and with headquarters in San Francisco. The company is now supplying East Los Angeles, Redondo, Bakersfield, Hermosa, Visalia, Stockton, Hanford, Contra Costa, Livermore, Dixon, Petaluma, Oroville, Chico, Willows and Redding.

The price paid for the Pacific Water Company is said to have been $1,700,000. The head office of this company is in Ohio. The Water Service Company also has an application before the commission to purchase the Los Angeles Water Company. The company is a $25,000,000 corporation.

Chevrolet Sales Make June Gain

Chevrolet sales in Detroit during the first ten days of this month exceded the total sales for the entire month of June, last year, according to H. B. Hatch, Chevrolet Detroit zone manager.

"Detroit registrations during the first ten days of this month show an increase of 128 per cent over the same ten days of last year," Mr. Hatch said.

"Dealers' reports, substantiated by a careful survey of conditions, indicate that Chevrolet business in this city during the present month will exceed the sales of June, 1930, by one hundred per cent."

Although sales this month in Detroit show an expected slight recession from the sales of last month, there has been no pronounced and abrupt decline such as marked the early part of June, 1930.

Sales in other communities throughout the Detroit zone have maintained a proportionate satisfactory volume, Mr. Hatch reported.

Madera—Apricot growers held meeting here recently.

Oakland—Marcus Rice opened jewelry store at 1906 Telegraph avenue.

BATTER UP

Just to prove that a pretty good knowledge of baseball technique is included in his "bag of many tricks," Gov. James Rolph stepped into pitcher's box at Sacramento the other day and twirled the first ball in a Coast League game. Yes, the ump called it a strike.

25 YEARS ON BOAT—NOT SEA

BOSTON, (UP) — Captain De Walden Brown, oldtime seafarer, has spent the past quarter of a century aboard a ship, but not once during that period has he been at sea. His home, where he has long enjoyed a hermit-like existence, is a house boat which lies in a tiny creek off Dorchester Bay.

MEBIA, Tex., (UP)—Wallale Fitzgerald, 10-year-old Ennis lad, drew a crowd here when he shot a 49 in nine holes of golf. Wallare made a birdie on the second hole.

Screens Struck by Lightning

LONGMONT, Colo., July 8 (UP) —The screens on the windows of the farm house of John Mundt proably will be safe from now on, if it is true that lightning does not strike twice in the same place. During a freak storm recently, the lightning struck house, burned off all the window screens and metal trimmings. It did not set the building afire, however.

Week at the Capitol

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 9 — "Ranger," one of the greatest lion-hunting dogs the West has ever ksown, is dead.

It might be said of Ranger, who was 14 years old and owned by Jay Bruce, state lion hunter, that the dog was "killed in action." He was struck down on the state highway by an automobile while attempting to find his master.

Ranger probably did more during his lifetime to protect and conserve the deer of California than any other single agency. For more than 12 years he led Bruce's pack of dogs, and during that time assisted in the killing of about 350 mountain lions.

California still has an over-supply of teachers, but a gradual leveling out of the surplus has resulted during the last year.

This is the conclusion of the state department of education ,which has carried on a study of teacher supply and demand for the last three years.

A total of 5,195 credentials were granted to teachers during the fiscal year 1929-30, the report shows. Of these, 3,580 were to new teachers. For the 1930-31 school year, a total of 2,690 new teachers were employed in California.

State Free employment agencies found jobs for 8,282 men and women during May, as compared with 7,747 in April, it is reported by Will J. French of the department of industrial relations.

From July1, 1930 to May v1, 1931, a total of 103,121 positions were filled by different state agencies. This big group of unemployed would have had to pay a large sum in fees if private employment agencies had filled the orders.

Steps to tighten up on fire prevention work through additional legislative authority were taken by Governor Rolph's state fire emergency committee at its first meeting here.

A sub-committee consisting of Rolland A. Vandegrift, director of finance; Jay Stevens, state fire marshal, and E. Raymond Cato, superintendent of the California highway patrol, was named to study handicaps in the state's forest fire program as a result of lack of adequate legislation.

Dressed in a blue denim overalls and wearing a regulation railroad engineer's cap, Governor James Rolph officially started a trainload of California redwood lumber to eastern markets.

Valued at more than $200,000, the lumber was carried on 117 cars. It was to be used in the construction of approximately 1,000 new homes.

Huckleberry Finn came to life again at Sacramento this week, but he scampered through his boyhood experiences on the Sacramento river instead of the Mississippi.

Jackie Coogan, recent star in "Tom Sawyer," with his two co-stars, Mitzi Green and Junior Durkin, were here to film the river scenes for the new picture.

They also paid a visit to the state capitol.

PET CROW LEARNS WORDS

NORFOLK, Neb., (UP)—"Blackie," a pet crow owned by Rev. H. Rowboldt here, is an apt student. The crow, captured when a baby, has mastered words and phrases, and now talks like a baby. He can laugh, too.

TIMES CHANGE CORN PRICE

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., (UP) — When a farmer hauls a load of corn to town here today he receives less than 50 cents per bushel. But, in December, 1858, when he hauled a load to old Fort Kearney, government frontier post on the Platte river, he received $4.36 per bushel from the government.

AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR, you'll appreciate instant hot water more than ever. You can keep things sweet and fragrant easier because you do not wait for water to heat. The time you save can be spent in healthful summer recreation. Then too, there are no fires to build, no hot kitchen when you heat water automatically.

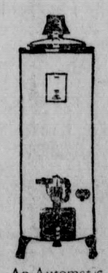
Once you have an automatic gas water heater you'll never do without it. The thermostat turns the gas on and off and keeps the water at 140 degrees day and night. Just turn a faucet and draw a tubful or a basinful of hot water—no delay or bother. The water stays hot because the boiler is insulated. No gas wasted.



An Automatic Gas Water Heater

As for cost, instant hot water is the cheapest of any method of heating water in the home. It amounts to less than one-fifth of a cent per gallon.

Why not stop in today and see the automatic gas water heaters? One may be purchased now for a small sum down and the balance in monthly payments.
